Resource Person: Director Ratnakumar, Cinematographer Vijay Karthik Kanna and Director Arun Bose.

Organiser: Mrs. M.Blessy, Head and Assistant Professor
Dr.I.Senthiladevi, Assistant Professor
Department of Visual Communication

Report of the Event:

The Department of Visual Communication organised its 5th Film Festival- First Step on 29.01.2018. The festival was mainly organised to help students interact with eminent personalities in the film industry and to be able to watch and discuss good films. The event had three main speakers, Director Ratnakumar, Cinematographer Vijay Karthik Kanna and Director Arun Bose. All the three speakers spoke on diverse topics in Indian cinema. The technicality involved, the paradigm shift in the minds of today's audience in accepting good films rather than films made with big names.

The students had a very interesting and thought-provoking interactive sessions. Director Ratnakumar spoke more on the commercialisation of films yet not compromising on the quality or content of the film. Cinematographer Vijay Karthik spoke on the impact of digitalisation and technological innovation in the field of cinematography, the need to be updated and challenge oneself to go a step further. Director Arun Bose, a climate change award winner spoke on the effectiveness of documentaries and short films in bringing about social change.

Report of the Event:

The Department of Visual Communication organised a two-day state level seminar on 'Media for Development'. The two-day seminar was a thought-provoking seminar where the students were made to think about the need to use media for development and also the responsibility of media in contributing to the development of the community. Dr.Nagarathinam spoke on the need for inclusive journalism, and the necessity to report on sustainable development goals. Mr.Selvprakash spoke on the topic of photography for social documentary: approaches and practice. In his session, Selvprakash shared his experience and photograph in documenting the topic of troubled waters. He spoke on the use of photography as an effective tool to document the problems in the society. Mr.K.Natarajan , effectively explained the impact of radio in rural development. Radio still holds a share among media audience in India and has the capacity to influence the thoughts of the rural people. Mr.Naveenkumar in his session spoke on the need to break social stigmas through media. He made the students realise the power of media and how the media as a weapon can be used to remove social cruelties. Prof.Balaji in his session gave a clear understanding of how cinema over the years has been contributing to social development.
